

these photos were taken by someone else (i don't know who) and are not of great quality. the one of betts especially is a bit fuzzy, since it was cropped from a much larger view. however, i love her face, and it brings back fond memories. the pics were taken, i believe, in the old bar. at the same event, most likely either the twelfth night ball or the regimantal ball following "the march".

i decided to print and frame six of them on the occasion of our 65th wedding anniversary, and this is yours.
